Telehealth

Use This Guide to Keep Up With Changing Telehealth Guidelines

Here’s how telehealth and other virtual services differ.

Changes to coding and policy are flying fast and furious since the onset of COVID-19.

One entity that’s been making a lot of changes quickly lately is the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS), which has been forced to issue coding and billing guidelines far (far) more often than it normally does. These are contained in an emergency Interim Final Rule, which CMS was compelled to issue to respond to this unprecedented healthcare crisis.

Check out the latest round of changes CMS has decided on with regard to coding telehealth services — and stay tuned for more information as it becomes available.

Interim Final Rule Clarifies Telehealth Changes